The program will commence on 30 March 2020, with the first payments to be received by eligible businesses in the first week of May as monthly arrears from the Australian Taxation Office. Eligible employers will be those with annual turnover of less than $1 billion who self-assess that have a reduction in revenue of 30 per cent or more, since 1 March 2020 over a minimum one-month period. Employers with an annual turnover of $1 billion or more would be required to demonstrate a reduction in revenue of 50 per cent or more to be eligible. The payment will be available from 28 April 2020. It is tax free with no new forms to complete as payments will flow automatically through the ATO. Payments to business are linked to staff wage tax withholdings (thus the reason why the ATO is administering), to incentivise businesses to hold on to more of their workers.

-  Instant asset write off changes - Increase the instant asset write off threshold from $30,000 to $150,000 and expand access to include businesses with aggregated annual turnover of less than $500 million (up from $50 million) until 30 June 2020.

-  Loan deferrals – The Australian Banking Association (ABA) have announced that their members will defer loan repayments for six months for small businesses who need assistance because of the impacts of the coronavirus.
-  Responsible lending deferrals - The Government will provide an exemption from responsible lending obligations for a period of six months in relation to the credit they extend to their existing small business customers, provided there is an existing borrowing relationship and some proportion of that credit is used for business purposes. The exemption will apply to new credit, credit limit increases and credit variations and restructures.
-  Assistance for severely-affected regions - $1 billion to support those sectors, regions and communities that have been disproportionately affected by the economic impacts of the Coronavirus, including those heavily reliant on industries such as tourism, agriculture and education.
